1. Introduction

The Council's Constitution and supporting Financial Regulations delegates the responsibility for writing off individual debts up to and including £10k to the Head of Revenues and Benefits under the scheme of delegation. Above this threshold debts (greater than £10k) are written off by Cabinet.

The Council only writes off debt where it is irrecoverable, for example where a customer has died and there are no assets, or a business is bankrupt and has no assets. The only exception to this is where a debt is not cost effective to recover.

The Council is prudent in managing debt and makes provision for them in its annual statement of accounts. This ensures that the writing off of bad debt has no detrimental affect on in year service provision or the council taxpayer. In the case of National Non Domestic Rates the Government meets 50% of the cost of writing off bad debt and the remainder is met by the major precepting bodies through pooling arrangements.

The table below is for information on the amounts that have been written off for the period 1st April 2019 through to 10th February 2020.

2. Key Facts

With the current economic climate, taxpayers may find it harder to pay local taxes such as Council Tax and Non Domestic Rates and as such, there may be an increase in the number of taxpayers who abscond with arrears owing.

By not writing off bad debts efficiently, this can affect collection rates by inflating arrears figures.

With limited resources, it is not cost effective to spend the same amount of time tracing all levels of debt.
